

Breaking the Support Returning Citizens in Their Journey to Self-Sufficiency Cycle.

Step into the shoes of returning citizens in this immersive, hands-on simulation designed to shed light on the exhaustive journey to self-sufficiency faced by those re-entering society after incarceration. This session will take Child Support Professionals through the first month of release, highlighting the barriers and challenges that contribute to feelings of helplessness and defeat. By experiencing the challenges firsthand, participants will develop a deeper empathy for returning citizens and be better equipped to implement practices that help rather than hinder their adjustment to life outside of prison. This simulation aims to inspire more effective and compassionate support withing child support service delivery, ultimately contributing to the long-term success and well-being of citizens who need child support services.
